

ANSWERS TO THE QUERIES

Information Asked of The Times Is Given Here.

Use of Noun.

A Reader in the sense in which you use the word loan it is a noun therefore it is quite correct to say that you have the loan of such and such an article. The loan is that which is lent; therefore, instead of will you loan me a sum of money, you should say will you lend me a sum of money. As to your second query, to loan is not "to lend" as you have it phrased. Lend is a verb and cannot be used as a noun as in your sentence.

Tomato Catsup.

Mrs. B. S.—This is a good recipe for tomato catsup. Slice a peck of unpeeled tomatoes and six large onions, and boil together until soft they can be run through a colander. Strain through a sieve and return to the fire, adding three bay leaves, a tablespoonful each of powdered mace, pepper, cloves, sugar, and salt, and a half teaspoonful of paprika. Add a tablespoonful of celery seed tied in a small cheese cloth bag. Boil for six hours, stirring frequently. Remove the bag of celery seed and pour in a pint of vinegar. Bring again to the boiling point and remove from the fire. Bottle and seal when cold.

SETTLEMENT WORK IS GOOD TRAINING

If a girl wishes to devote her entire time to social work, nowhere is she needed more than in the college settlement, nor is there a university where she can obtain a broader education in life's problems and how to meet them than right there in the settlement house. It is a sort of missionary work that benefits both sides. Children's libraries now form no small factor in women's work, and they offer a congenial as well as influential outlet for one's pet theories on education and child development. Courses in this work are now offered in various institutions.

Many girls have a genius for millinery; they trim all their own hats—why not trim other people's? Or, the girl who lives at home may substitute as her father's secretary, and in so doing come into closer companionship with her father, at the same time earning a little pin-money for herself. There are many things to do, if only she keeps her eyes open to her opportunities and her heart ready to respond to them.

Women Can Generally Detect Errors in the Clothes of Men

A woman always likes to see a man well dressed, and can generally detect errors, though it isn't always advisable to point them out.

When a man is well groomed he will look well dressed, though his clothes be old and shabby. If he but look clean and neat about the head and feet the rest of his person will generally pass muster. These two points usually catch a woman's eye.

When one sees the sort of errors in dress of which courting young men are guilty, it is a wonder they ever succeed in impressing any young woman. Unless, of course, the young woman decides that the man will never dress properly until she has married him and shown him how to. The awful scarecrow in a heavy brown suit, with rumpled boots, and a necktie rucking up over the back of his collar, certainly seems to need somebody's aid to make him presentable.

Men's hats change in fashion a good deal, but it is always better to select

Season for Canteloupes Is Now Practically Ended

The watermelon and canteloupe seasons have practically ended. There will be straggling shipments of each through the remainder of this month, but the bulk of them has ceased.

About the only canteloupes that will be received from now will be Rocky Fords from Colorado. The watermelons, principally, will be of the home-grown variety, and those raised along river points. As far as quality goes, concluding shipments of both kinds of melons promise to be of a high order.

The present season, from the consumer's standpoint, has been one of the best ever known for watermelons and canteloupes. Both have been plentiful, and, considering the early drought, have been of unusual quality, so that there has been a constant demand for them. The later crop of watermelons promises to be even better than the first, and the Rocky Fords now reaching the markets are selling almost at a premium. Fortunately, demand for the melons seems to be declining in exactly the same ratio as supply is diminishing, so that, in all probability, the market will not be burdened with surplus supply. Indications are that the season will be one of the most evenly timed, as far as the relation between supply and demand is concerned, of any ever known on the local market.

JELLY FOR INVALIDS.

Has it ever occurred to you to jelly fruits in the smallest possible glasses for the invalid friend? Glasses may be had which will hold but a quarter of the jelly usually put into the ordinary tumbler size.

While you may not want to carry to your friend just one of these tiny playthings, the variety that you could take in four of the little glasses would be novel, and so much more acceptable to the delicate appetite than a quantity of one kind.

Some folk with good eyesight saw "matches," some saw "pairs," again others saw "stuffs," and almost everybody registered his impressions of the general conversation which obtains on some verandas at the winking hour of twilight. The judges, with sundry smiles and nods, are about ready to set at their weekly task, and as usual on Sunday afternoon the announcement of the awards will be made.

Annual Sale of School Supplies and Apparel

WE shall begin tomorrow, Saturday, our Annual Sale of School Supplies and Apparel for Schoolgoers, to which we invite the attention of parents, guardians, and children.

Parents and students, having decided upon schools for their sons and daughters, now take up the equally important consideration of preparing them for the coming scholastic year. The preparation is an undertaking of considerable magnitude, and much worry and expense when it entails days of shopping from store to store, and weeks of dressmaking and plain sewing at home—all wearing on the nerves and trying to the patience.

Fathers and Mothers, will, therefore, be interested to learn that we are ready for the complete outfitting of boys and girls of all school ages, from kindergarten tots to the college seniors—clothing and other requisites ready to use. Our numerous departments are so arranged that the entire shopping for the whole school year may be done in one morning or afternoon.

WE are showing a good assortment of Boys' Fall Clothing, and are receiving new invoices every day. We call attention to the largely increased variety for this season. The excellence of our Boys' Clothing has always been generally admitted, and our prices will be found correspondingly attractive.

Special attention is called to three lines that we are offering at $5.00, $5.95 and $7.50 each.

The $5.95 are Combination Suits—that is, they have two pairs of pants—knickerbocker style and lined throughout. The coats are faced at the bottom, have watch pockets, are cut in the latest styles, and in a dozen different effects. Materials are blue chevrons, and cassimeres in browns, tans, and grays. Sizes 7 to 17. These are strong, well made, durable suits, and particularly desirable for school wear.

Special price, $5.95 each.

The $5.00 and $7.50 Suits represent very exceptional values. The styles and materials are the same as the $5.95 suits, but the quality is better, as there is only one pair of trousers to each suit.

Attention is also called to an attractive line of Boys' Top Coats and Reefers, for fall wear. They are made of excellent quality cassimeres, serges, worsteds, and coverts, in plain colors and fancy effects. Reefers, sizes 2½ to 10. Top Coats, sizes 9 to 17.

GIRL IN COLLEGE CAN HELP SISTERS

The college girl who lives at home can put her education to good use by teaching her younger brothers and sisters; or perhaps she can arrange to tutor some anxious subfreshman preparing for college. This is not confining work, and, while it does not involve any great salary, it gives a girl a feeling of independence in the knowledge that she could make a business of tutoring, if necessary. Moreover, there is nothing that teaches patience and appreciation like teaching, and even a very limited experience along that line is valuable. If one is socially inclined, "socially" being used here in its broader meaning—teaching may be made to include friendly visiting, and most useful and absorbing work, and one greatly in need of new recruits. The friendly visitor has an unexampled opportunity, and her life, while full of disappointment and disillusion, is yet so complete in its service and in its consequences that being necessary to others that there can be no question as to its being a happy one.

WASHABLE RIBBONS WIDER THAN BEFORE

Washable ribbons are markedly wider than were those formerly in general use. The majority of the threadings for the tops of corset covers, chemises, and combination garments are an inch wide, while those used on petticoat flounces, night robes, and negligees measure fully two inches across. This fashion so materially increases the expense of keeping up the lingerie that the care of the reserve supply of ribbons is of importance. As it is more economical to purchase these ribbons by the bolt, they should be kept rolled up in their original paper ribbons, which should be extended as nearly as possible to the outer end of the roll. Long-eyed bodkins are specially provided for running these wide ribbons through lingerie headings, but for the toilet utensils, there are tag-ended ribbons which come in two-yard lengths.

WOMEN OF TURKEY HAD PART IN REVOLT

The enlarged rights which have recently been given to the women of Turkey are said to have played no small part in bringing about the revolt of the rank and file of the army. The Turkish women's clubhouse was one of the buildings in Constantinople fired upon by the troops, most of whom are said to be fanatical Mohammedans.
